

Baptisia x Twilite Prairieblues

False Indigo (NATIVE)

Price : $15.00

Price includes 6% MD sales tax

Exposure Full Sun, Part Shade

Height 36" - 60"

Spread 36" - 60"

Spacing 48" - 60"

Bloom Color Violet - Purple - Yellow

Bloom time Early Summer

Deer Resistant Yes

USDA Hardiness Zone 5 - 9

Description

Twilite Prairie Baptisia is an abundant and long lived bloomer with trifoliate leaves and violet-purple flowers with dramatic yellow keels resembling lupines. It is tough but may take a few seasons to establish itself. This is one of the most floriferous Baptisia that will brighten any garden. It fixes nitrogen in the soil. Even when not in bloom, this Baptisia is a welcome presence in the landscape with its bright green foliage. If untrimmed, the seed pods turn charcoal black in fall and persist through winter. It also thrives in poor soil and drought conditions. It attracts bees, butterflies and hummingbirds and can be used as cut flowers. It looks dramatic in borders, cottage gardens prairie and native gardens.