Description

Phlox 'Party Girl' is a clump-forming, long blooming herbaceous perennial with large panicles of white flowers adorned with a star-shaped pale pink center. Blooming for weeks, the fragrant flowers are rich in nectar and visited by bees, hummingbirds, and butterflies. They are borne atop dark purple, upright stems, clad with narrow lance-shaped bright green leaves, and make excellent fresh-cut flowers. This compact phlox tolerates heat and humidity and is very powdery mildew resistant. Perfect for flower borders, cottage gardens, and mass plantings.
