Description

Sweetheart Lilac (Syringa x. hyacinthiflora) is an interspecific hybrid that blooms up to 10 days sooner than many of the other Liliacs. A medium size deciduous tree/shrub with large, scented flower bracts lasting over several weeks. Not all flowers appear to mature at the same time creating a contrast of pretty light pink and mauve colors. The plant then takes a brief rest to create new growth before it starts to bloom again in mid to late summer, continuing through frost. Attracts a large number of pollinators.
